Did you know... ?

The average college debt is $100K per student. This very big financial burden usually takes around 20 years to pay off. The way I see it, it's either crippling to your family to save up the money, or it's crippling to your college-bound child. On top of that, most people don't know how or where to start, without considering using their retirement, savings or equity.

So how do you get your hands on scholarship money that will remove the worry from the college equation?

The good news is that free college is available based on high test scores. Colleges are ranked nationally based on this standardized scoring system. So, the higher the score-the more money you get!

Unfortunately, just being intelligent is not good enough. Even smart kids bomb the SAT. College Prep Genius gives your kid the right tools. In fact, we show students how to accurately answer questions in 30 seconds or less. Taking the test will be a breeze and they'll get the scores that matter.

How is this class any different to any other program or book out there?

Most programs, classes and books do not teach that tests like the SAT/PSAT/ACT are tests of logic and critical thinking which have questions designed to purposely misguide students to pick the wrong answers. They simply teach content memorization or re-teach high school over again.

College Prep Genius teaches relevant strategies and the logical recurring patterns found on the tests. Here are a few fun techniques:

Are there proven results of the class?

The average student raises his or her score 250 points. Many have increased their SAT score by 600 points, become National Merit Scholars and gone to Ivy Leagues for FREE!

You may feel skeptical about what College Prep Genius offers. With so much information online it's understandable and I expect you to be cautious. I recommend you take the time to seek out and read the many independent and glowing reviews about all my programs. You won't be disappointed.

Does the information in the class work on the ACT?

Yes, they are about 95% the same test and a lot of the ACT writers now work for the College Board (SAT makers) and so the formatting is almost identical. There is a crossover of information that works on the ACT. Every college takes either one and if they prefer one over the other, they convert the score.

What grade students should take this class?

Students from 7th grade and above should consider taking this class. Even if you haven't had test prep on your radar, realize that younger students have time on their side. Preparing earlier gives your child the ability to figure out their weaknesses early, long before there is a lot of pressure to raise their scores to get scholarship money.

How reliable is College Prep Genius?

College Prep Genius stands the test of time and has been around for 14 years.

How is the class structured?

It is generally a 2 day/5 1/2 hour interactive class geared for a lot of fun learning in a relatively short amount of time. The students learn great strategies and recurring patterns that are found on the SAT and PSAT. They work actual questions and then the teacher goes back over each one and shows why the right ones are right and why the wrong ones are wrong so students can work on their weaknesses. Students get excited and gain a high level of skill and confidence learning to ace the test.

How will students be able to remember the information?

Students not only benefit from live coaching during the two-day program but will also have access to their own online e-Course subscription. They can log in for the exclusive College Prep Genius online resources to review and solidify all the information, so they can apply it appropriately and internalize the strategies.

I am still not sure the class is for us. Please help.

Don't take our word for it. Find out how your student compares to all other students by setting up a profile at www.cappex.com. You will enter your student's GPA, SAT or ACT score and the name of your preferred college(s). The results will show how many students were accepted or denied with the same criteria. If they have not taken an actual SAT, they can take the free practice test # 1.

This will give you an immediate understanding of where your student ranks today for acceptance as well as scholarship money!
